

Yoo Jin started her career with J&J Medical Korea as a sales representative in 2001. For 19 years in J&J, she managed diverse businesses with various aspects such as to sustain, reinvent, competitive share-gain & start-up creating integrated career opportunities across different functions in sales, professional education & marketing to serve local & AP regional needs of our patients.

She has been taking a role as the head of J&J Orthopaedic Medical Device Business Korea - DePuySynthes since October 2019. Currently she takes her responsibilities to build competitive teams toward obtaining the market leadership delivering comprehensive & innovative solutions to our customers & patients of DePuy Synthes. Also, she takes a critical role to create initiatives in developing key talents bringing diverse & inclusive culture which is essential to our organizational success.

Other than her work as a commercial leader, she puts her contribution as North Asia Women's Leadership & Inclusion chapter lead cross sector J&J.

Yoo Jin holds an undergraduate degree from Sung Kyun Kwan University majored in Law and an MBA from Korea University. She is now based in Seoul with her husband with 2 kids.